

Your conference is to go online – Conference information on the GTB homepage

The GTB e.V. offers to organizers of national and international workshops and conferences on subjects relating to the testing of software-based systems an extended possibility to advertise for the events on the GTB's homepage.

In this context, the following conditions apply:

- Published are national and international workshops and conferences on subjects relating to the testing of software-based systems, which offer a podium for the training and certification schemes developed by the GTB, which provide a platform for the GTB to present itself, or which permit the GTB or GTB-accredited certification authorities to promote the training and certification schemes in an appropriate manner.
- Transmission of the following data to backoffice@german-testing-board.info for publication:
 - Name of workshop or conference with link
 - Company logo
 - Location and date/time of event
 - Short description
- There is no obligation of the GTB to publish the information